DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 6/9/04 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Siersch 9408066.

Art Unit: 2872

Siersch meets the limitations of these claims as discussed previously, but does not show only a single illumination optical system in the embodiment having the illumination optical axis lying inside the circle. However, the omission of an element and its corresponding function has been held to require only ordinary skill in the art. Further, Siersch shows embodiments having only one illumination system. It would have been obvious to the ordinarily skilled artisan at the time of invention to eliminate one the of illumination systems in the fig. 3 embodiment of Siersch in order to reduce the complexity and/or reduce the size and weight of the microscope system.

4. Claims rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Buhler 3909106.

Buhler meets the limitations of these claims as discussed previously and shows only a single illumination system(16), but also shows an image receiving channel(17) and thus does not show a microscope consisting of only the claimed elements (right and left observation systems and illumination system). However, the omission of an element and its corresponding function has been held to require only ordinary skill in the art. It would have been obvious to the ordinarily skilled artisan at the time of invention to eliminate the image receiving channel(17) of Buhler in order to reduce the complexity and/or reduce the size and weight of the microscope system.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to the Siersch and Buhler references have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. Regarding the argument that the references do not teach use of the device for dental treatments, this is a statement of intended use which does not distinguish the present invention in a structural manner from the references.
